Must-Have Accessories

On the links, the smallest details can make all the difference and no head-to-toe look is complete without the ideal accoutrements. When it comes to looking cool while protecting your eyes from a harsh glare, no brand has you covered better than Tifosi sunglasses. Made specifically for athletes, these sturdy, lightweight styles are highlighted by the Slip model. Highly affordable (less than $50) and available in men's and women's options, the Slip is worn in competition by LPGA Tour star Brittany Lincicome. It has three, impact-resistant, interchangeable polycarbonate lenses, including the GT, which is designed to provide object illumination that helps players follow a ball in flight, and the EC, which increases light contrast, bringing to life a putting surface's subtle contrasts. Additional features include a Glare Guard to decrease eye fatigue and 100-percent UVA/UVB protection.

For ladies, the 2008 mk collection from kerigolf features an expanded array of cart and stand bag styles with lighter-weight construction in sophisticated colors and luxurious accents. Named for principal designer Keri Murschell's daughter, Mary Kate, the new collection showcases neutral shades of brown, ivory, blue and pink in prints ranging from bold florals to modern geometrics.

Paired with the company's selection of totes and head covers, the extensive line features superior looks borne out in leather trims, gold-plated hardware and personalized monogramming alongside detachable zip bags and mirrors in coordinated fabrics.

"My inspiration is always derived from the world around me and the things that I enjoy everyday," says Murschell, the company founder and principal designer. "kerigolf is thrilled to be celebrating five unbelievable years and the mk collection blends textures with a 'neopolitan ice cream' color palette. The warm shades of feminine color come to life in prints that exude energy."

One favorite is the "katherine" cart bag with its pink body and polka dot trim. Like all of kerigolf's trademark bags, this style showcases multiple external and interior pockets to keep cell phones, balls and tees readily at hand, and is guaranteed to finish any outfit. For the off-course golf lifestyle, look no further than the polka dotty tote with patent leather trim, gold-plated hardware and space for everything a woman on the go can carry.

Ideal for anyone's game are Q-Link's performance-enhancing bracelets. Forged with technologies to boost your resistance to stress, the stylish pieces increase mental and physical resilience by regulating a body's energy field. Skeptics have been won over by the success of Q-Link devotees like major champions Mike Weir, Laurena Ochoa and Mark Calcavecchia, as well as the scores of other Tour players worldwide who turn to the brand for an extra edge in all facets of their life. Particularly eye-catching are the exceptional quality and attention to detail of the new Stainless-Steel and Titanium bracelets featuring a dual SRT-3 wafer design and flexible sides for a perfect fit.
